

ICERA APPOINTS GENERAL COUNSEL AND VP LEGAL & IP

Bristol, UK, March 22 2007. Icera Inc. today announced the appointment of Steve Chandler to the position of General Counsel and Vice President Legal & Intellectual Property. In this new role, Steve will be responsible for all aspects of Icera's legal affairs and will lead the development and implementation of the company's IP strategy on a worldwide basis as Icera establishes its position as a major cellular data modem provider to the mobile industry.

Stan Boland, President and CEO of Icera, said: "Steve is a highly regarded Intellectual Property specialist with extensive international business experience and will be an invaluable addition to our management team. His expertise will be instrumental in shaping our IP protection, licensing and negotiation strategy and we are delighted to welcome him to Icera."

Steve joins Icera from CDT (Cambridge Display Technology) where he was VP Legal & IP and General Counsel. During his three and a half years at CDT, he implemented a successful worldwide IP protection strategy, led the company through a successful NASDAQ IPO and negotiated many complex international partnership and licensing agreements. Prior to this, Steve was a partner and Head of Technology and Media at UK law firm, Pinsent Curtis Biddle. Steve joined Pinsent Curtis as an Associate in 1980, having gained an MA degree in Law from Cambridge University.
